Edmond Ranked #30 out of 405 as Best City in the U.S. For Women Entrepreneurs to Launch a Business

INDIAN LAND, S.C., GOODCALL- The city of Edmond, OK was ranked as one of the best cities in the U.S. for women entrepreneurs to launch a business in a new report by data-science group GoodCall.

"Edmond took the #30 position, outranking other Oklahoma cities in the top 50 including Oklahoma City and Yukon," says Eppie Vojt, founder of GoodCall. "The city of Edmond earned its rank by having a strong post-recession economy and a high density of female business-owners, outweighing many other places in the country."

A total of 405 cities were evaluated on the metrics of core economic strength, business climate for women, professional networking potential and female educational values.

"We are excited to hear that Edmond has been recognized as one of the 2015 Best U. S. Cities for Women Entrepreneurs," says Ken Moore, President and CEO of the Edmond Area Chamber of Commerce. "The Edmond Area Chamber of Commerce prides itself on the programs and events we conduct for women in business. We will continue to work with this important segment of our business community to foster an environment where women in business can flourish and excel."

Edmond's City Manager Larry Stevens added, "We are honored to be a part of this distinguished group of communities. Edmond works hard to be business friendly, and this ranking shows we are heading in the right direction."

The report also features advice for women entrepreneurs provided by national experts from the U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Women's Business Ownership, The National Women's Business Council and the American Association of University Women.
